

Spotlight on 2008 ILA Conference CD-ROM Sponsors

This year's Conference CD-ROM was made possible due to the generous support of sponsors. The ILA is grateful for their sponsorship of this unique and useful publication. To learn more about our sponsors, please follow the links (in red) at the end of each paragraph.

INSEAD (Silver Sponsor)

INSEAD is one of the world's leading and largest graduate business schools which brings together people, cultures and ideas from around the world to change lives and transform organizations. This worldly perspective and cultural diversity are reflected in all aspects of our research and teaching. In the course of a year, across the school's two campuses in Asia (Singapore) and Europe (France) and our two centers in the Middle East (Israel and Abu Dhabi), 137 renowned faculty members from 32 countries inspire more than 1,000 degree participants—MBA, Executive MBA and PhD—and more than 9,500 executives from the world's leading companies. Across this comprehensive range of programs, our participants are drawn from more than 100 countries and represent all continents. Learn more..

Texas Christian University - Leadership Center (Silver Sponsor)

In 1933, the Division of Student Affairs at Texas Christian University created the TCU Leadership Center in order to expand its commitment to leadership development and community engagement. The key to the Center's success is its interdisciplinary approach—bringing student of all majors together with faculty and community members to explore leadership and social change on a local, national, and global level. Today, the TCU Leadership Center serves as TCU's premier resource for leadership development, serving thousands of students, faculty, staff, and community members with skills-based, interactive training and resources that ensure thorough exposure to contemporary leadership topics and theories. ## Union Institute and University (Silver Sponsor)

Union Institute and University actively seeks to identify and reach those underserved by higher education and provide them with world class educational opportunities and services. UI&U is among the largest doctoral degree producing universities in the region. Its low-residency, cohort-based masters and doctoral programs focus on interdisciplinary, social relevance, leadership, critical thinking, and diversity—and are aligned with the university's mission to engage, enlighten, and empower adults. Join a cohort of learners, faculty, and experts while balancing high quality academics with career, family, and community commitments. Learn more..

University of British Columbia (Bronze Sponsor)

In the past 100 years, the University of British Columbia has grown into one of Canada's finest universities. Measured by any criterion—the intellectual caliber of its students, the quality of faculty teaching and research, the professionalism of its staff—UBC is an outstanding university, and plays a vital role in the cultural, social, and economic development of the region and Canada. UBC has much to offer and underlying this wealth of offerings is the belief in several vital principles that in one way or another inform all aspects of learning and research: active engagement in civil society, the pursuit of sustainability in its social as well as its environmental forms, and commitment to global citizenship.
